This Is The Way It Was

This monthly photo column by Ken Murdock features railroad scenes of the past, a look back into railroading's history.

What happened to SBD & CSX FP7A 118 and F7A 116 and F7Bs 117 and 119? You might remember that SBD acquired them when the Clinchfield was merged into their system and they, and later, CSX used them in business train and roadrailer service for a few years, then they seemed to disappear. I took this photo on 4-23-2016 of former CSX 116, nee Clinchfield RR 800, at Spencer, NC disguised as C&O 8016. It appeared during "Streamliners at Spencer" in this paint scheme. – Ken Murdock photo

This is former CSX FP7A 118, nee Clinchfield 200, at Elkins, WV, disguised as Western Maryland 67, ready to pull their Tygart Flyer tourist & dinner train over their Durbin & Greenbrier Valley Railroad on 6-20-2008. The Clinchfield had used 200 and 800 along with two B units in their excursion service. The B unit behind WM 67 is former CSX F7B 117, nee NC&StL 918, nee Clinchfield 869, disguised as Western Maryland 415. Both units remain there today. This B unit and a sister unit were once controlled from the cab of Clinchfield's 1882, 4-6-0, steam engine No. 1 for CRR's excursion train. I haven't located sister B unit, CSX 119. – Ken Murdock photo

Recently, CSX sent former 116 to their Huntington, WV Shops for repainting back to its original Clinchfield gray and yellow colors and number. It was then used to pulled CSX's Annual Santa train on their former Clinchfield this year, paired with an ex-SCL, SD45 painted in Clinchfield black and yellow. To my pleasant surprise, 800 has been sent to the Orlando & Northwestern Railway for one month to pull their Polar Express. This photo finds it in Plymouth while being delivered by the Florida Central. The 800 is now owned by the Southern Appalachian Railway Museum. – Bill Dusenbury photo

November Museum Report

By Ken Murdock, Curator

We started the month early with our first Wednesday workday being on November 1. We had five members participating who included Phil Cross, Irv Lipscomb, Jerry & Ginger Honetor and me. In summary, in the new Museum/Meeting Room, we finished sanding the drywall, vacuumed the dust, applied the prime coat of paint on the walls, applied the finish coat of paint on about half of the walls, filled screw and nail head holes in the ceiling, purchased and installed a pre-hung door for the air conditioning closet. Jerry worked some in the library and Ginger worked on the collection in the morning and hosted in the afternoon.

Wednesday, November 8, was our second workday of the month and participation was very light with only Jerry & Ginger Honetor and myself participating. Irv Lipscomb and Al Sharp had planned on being there but Irv was ill and Al's wife was as well. We installed the wood trim for the air conditioning closet and then concentrated on painting the walls and ceiling in the new Museum/Meeting Room. Ginger continued her work with the collection and hosted in the afternoon.

Our third Wednesday, museum workday of the month was on the 15th, and we had five members participating who included Phil Cross, Irv Lipscomb, Jerry & Ginger Honetor and me. The main emphasis was in the new Museum/Meeting Room. We applied a second coat on the walls, finished the first coat on the ceiling and started the second coat, cut-in the paint around the light fixtures and where the ceiling meets the walls and took care of many miscellaneous carpentry items plus caulking and filling the wood trim. Ginger worked on the collection and hosted in the afternoon.

On Saturday, November 18, we had our fourth monthly museum workday and had 7 members participating who included Phil Cross, Allen Quinn, Phil Piet, Jerry & Ginger Honetor, Rick Sumner and me. Rick Sumner visited us last Monday evening and came Saturday with his membership form and dues check and put in a very productive day with us. Welcome aboard Rick! We are very happy to have you. We all accomplished a variety of things today. To summarize it, we took care of the house-keeping chores and outside cleanup. In the new Museum/Meeting room, we finished painting 95 percent of the walls and all the ceiling, installed 95 percent of the cove molding around the perimeter where walls meet the ceiling, relocated the refreshment bar cabinets from the old Library to the new Museum/Meeting room and install them, then started installing the lattice strips on the ceiling over the joints in the plywood. As usual, Ginger hosted in the afternoon.

The day before Thanksgiving, November 22, Phil Cross, Rick Sumner (our newest member), Jerry & Ginger Honetor and myself participated in our usual Wednesday workday. Phil, Rick and I worked in the new Museum/Meeting Room. We installed 90 percent of the lattice strips over the joints in the plywood ceiling, primed the outside of the new Office and the baseboards, caulked joints and finished many miscellaneous carpentry items. Jerry made a trip to Lowes and purchased the lumber for the baseboards, then returned to working on inventory in the library. Ginger worked on the collection and hosted in the afternoon.

We wrapped up the fifth and last Wednesday workday of the month on November 29, with five members participating who included Phil Cross, Jerry & Ginger Honetor, Irv Lipscomb and me. We installed some of the baseboards, finished painting the walls and started painting the brown on the wood door trim and baseboards, took care of a number of miscellaneous carpentry items and installed casters on one of our recently acquired showcases. Jerry was able to get back to working on the library inventory and Ginger cleaned showcases and hosted in the afternoon. The electrician came for a couple of hours and trimmed out the wall switches and wall outlets. The room is really beginning to shape up. Continued Bottom of Page 4.

November was another very productive month and our new Museum/Meeting Room has moved much closer to completion. Thanks to all who helped with this major undertaking. I also want to thank those who have helped in so many other ways such as hosting plus the many behind the scenes tasks that keeps our organization functioning from month to month. As I keep saying, we can't do it without you!!!

Society Field Trip to the Royal Palm Railway Experience/Orlando & Northwestern Railway

By Phil Piet

Our Royal Palm outing on November 4th was a great success! We had 9 members in attendance (Jarrod Reynolds, Phil Piet, Patrick Smith, Patricia Smith, Mike Ryan, David Rhea, John Christensen and Jerry and Ginger Honetor) plus 4 guests. Our trains ran late due to a malfunctioning bell on one engine (the nicely painted purple one in the photo). Because of this malfunction, the train had to do a reverse move for the whole trip back to Eustis. Most of us enjoyed lunch at Copacabana in Mt. Dora, and there was plenty of time for train photos as well as window shopping.
